Magician's Spirit Fails Again to Manifest Self

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—The spirit of Howard Thurston failed for the 11th time to manifest itself to a long-time friend of the famed magician.

Claude Noble, Detroit, stood for one minute in the mausoleum where the body of Thurston lies and waited for the spirit of the magician to return.

As two newspapermen watched in silence, Noble stepped into the mausoleum at 12:30 p.m., recited the Lord's Prayer, and said:

"Howard Thurston, I am here in response to our pact. If you can manifest yourself to me, do it now."

He then held aloft a photograph of Carveth Wells, explorer and friend of the sleight-of-hand artist who died in Miami at 12:30 p.m., 13 years ago.

Under the pact made between Thurston and Noble before the magician's death, the spirit of Thurston would have knocked the picture out of Noble's hand. But today nothing happened—just as nothing had happened in the 10 previous attempts.

Noble silently left the building and walked through the rain to an automobile.

Noble, who missed the date in 1947 and 1948 because of illness, said he would return next year to make another attempt. He said that should he die, the experiment will be continued either by Wells or magician Howard Blackstone.

Milk By-Products Hold Infant Food Source

An infant food made from edible by-products of milk may soon open a new market for dairymen in tests now going on in Mexico continue to show favorable results. This is the conclusion drawn by Dr. Harold Macy of the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Macy and Irvine McQuarrie, pediatrics head at the university, have visited Mexico where they conferred with leading pediatricians on the tests.

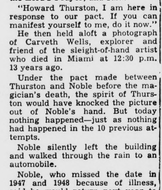
The new baby food will offer opportunities for use in many countries if future experiments prove satisfactory.

Calf Which 'Sits Down' Interests Veterinarians

Cattle don't sit down ordinarily, so it was news when the American Veterinary association expressed professional interest in the strange case of a Hereford calf on a farm in Tennessee. The AMV journal said the Tennessee calf often sits on its ground with her hind legs sprawled forward.

The calf usually lies down again before trying to rise to all four feet, the journal reported.

Soil Protection



Pelting rains may be a soil destroyer rather than a farm blessing unless your land has a protective "umbrella" over cover crops.

Beating rains on bare soils and break the surface soil into small particles. These particles quickly fill the pores of the surface soil. The surface forms a hard crust. Water cannot soak in. Instead, it runs over the surface. The farm land then suffers a double loss. It loses needed moisture for crops and it loses valuable top-soil.

The Middle West soil improvement committee suggests these steps for protecting your soil and giving your crops better use of the rains you get:

1. Use a cropping system that gives your soil as continuous cover as possible throughout the year.

2. Thick - growing grasses and deep-rooted legumes give the best cover.

3. Small grains following corn help keep the land protected.

4. If winter wheat or rye is not feasible, a good covering can be had by mashing down corn stalks or soybean tops.

Legumes like alfalfa and sweet clover prevent washing away of soil. Their prying taproots open the soil so rain soaks in and is held for crops. Legumes well fed with phosphate and potash fertilizer add life-giving organic matter.

Land Should Be Turned Under for New Legumes

When corn is to follow first-year sweetclover, it is advisable to get the ground turned under before the new growth of the legume removes too much moisture from the soil.

This tip comes from D. L. Gross, Nebraska university extension agronomist. He advises, however, not to plow under the clover before new crown shoots get to a length of four to six inches. Earlier plowing may not kill the legume.

Oldest Scrolls Of Bible to Go To High Bidder

BALTIMORE. — Four leather-bound parchment scrolls, described by a Johns Hopkins university archeologist as "the greatest manuscript discovery of modern times," will be offered for sale to the highest bidder.

He will have to be wealthy. The documents are the four oldest manuscripts of the Old Testament known to date. Valued at more than a million dollars, they were brought secretly to this country early this year.

Discovered by wandering Arabs in a half-closed cave by the Dead sea in 1947, the parchments contain the entire Book of the Prophet Isaiah as it appears in the Bible, a commentary on the Book of Habakkuk, and a manual of discipline for a Judaic sect.

Experts say they were written 100 years before Christ—1,100 years before the date assigned to the oldest Hebrew Bible scroll previously known.

Sale Date Soon

An authoritative source, who declined use of his name, said the treasure would go on the block shortly. It is owned by St. Mark's Syrian Orthodox convent in Jerusalem.

Dr. F. W. Albright, professor of Semitic languages at Hopkins and one of the nation's top archaeologists, first established the authenticity of the scrolls from photographs sent to him.

Since then he has examined the originals. He reported:

"During the past few weeks any possible doubt about the age and authenticity of the scrolls has been removed."

He disclosed also that the documents were sent to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. There chemists reportedly are working over one scroll whose condition has prevented its being unrolled.

St. Mark's was damaged badly in the recent fighting between Israeli and Arab forces in the Holy Land. It expects to get repair money from the sale of the manuscripts.

U. S. May Buy

The hope is that the U. S. Government may buy them. Among interested groups, however, is Yale University.

The find, whose worth to the Christian-Jewish world has been termed incalculable, was brought to America by Athanasius Yeshue Samuel, Syrian archbishop of Jerusalem and Trans-Jordan and Orthodox apostolic delegate to the United States.

The documents were already in the U. S., it was disclosed, when dispatches March 18 reported them hidden and guarded in Syrian homes to prevent possible damage or loss in Palestine fighting.

Dr. Albright believes that one of the scrolls—the one reportedly in chemists' hands now—written in Aramaic, the tongue of Christ.

And, he declared, it may contain another Bible book—which would double the monetary value.

Old Fluorescent Tubes Create Health Hazards

NEW YORK.—Industrial representatives have joined with New York city officials in issuing a warning concerning disposal of burned-out fluorescent lamps.

At a conference called by the department of health and sanitation, it was said that broken fluorescent tubes may create health hazards.

The tubes—of which 200 million are said to be in use throughout the nation—are reported coated on the inside with a phosphor which usually contains beryllium, a toxic substance.

It was said that skin cuts from broken tubes might cause a condition known as granuloma, a benign skin tumor. There also is a danger in inhaling dust from broken tubes.

The conference, including representatives of firms which manufacture the tubes, unanimously adopted this list of precautions for disposing of burned - out tubes:

1. Keep discarded tubes away from children.

2. Never break tubes or place tubes in incinerator or open containers in the street.

3. Deliver tubes directly to refuse trucks.

4. Should a tube be broken, sweep up fragments and wrap them in heavy paper. Never handle broken fragments without gloves.

5. If cut by a broken tube, consult a doctor at once.

Lice, Mange Top Pests Of Those Harming Swine

Two of the most common and harmful pests on hogs are lice and mange. If insects are permitted to feed on hogs, the animals will have stunted growth and be more subject to disease, says the University of Louisiana agriculture extension division.

Farmers are reminded that by controlling insects they increase the value of pastures and feed and thus increase their earnings.

A Report On The Proposed Town Bond Issue:

Please consider some additional Town Activities that DO NOT call for any additional tax burden, and are believed to be not only self-liquidating, but perhaps a source of considerable net revenue. It might be an overly optimistic view to speculate as to the time that a public utility, municipally operated would prove sufficiently profitable to not only relieve, but possibly eliminate altogether any local taxes. It has been done, and the reference here is to our Sister/Town of Bedford, Virginia.

The owners of the Water Company have offered to sell and the Town is being given the opportunity of buying the present Water System for $53,653.95.

Previous public statements have indicated the need for additional facilities at a cost of approximately $30,000. This means a total outlay of approximately $80,000.00.

Your Councilmen have gone on record as approving the above acquisition and expenditure, but such action on their part has simply set in motion the legal machinery to bring the issue to each citizen for his or her approval of the plan.

At a Special Election called for June 14, 1949, you will have the opportunity and privilege of expressing your opinion as to whether or not you favor the Bond issue of $80,000 for the above purposes.

Please bear-in mind that the entire proceeds of the bonds will be used to purchase a profitable, going concern, representing sound physical values, and for the improvement and extension of the present Water System, which is expected to provide additional and improved service.

The gross annual income of the present Water System is approximately $9,000.00. Interest on the $80,000 in bonds at an estimated 3 per cent would amount to $2,400.00 which leaves $6,600.00 for operating expenses and retirement of the bonds. It appears that, at least, $2,000.00 in bonds could be retired annually, and as the system grows the net operating income should show a corresponding increase.

The proposal for your consideration is possibly the most forward step that the Town has ever undertaken, and with your approval can be accomplished without any additional increase in taxes. It is strictly a business proposition, and one which has had the mature consideration of your Council, with the result that it is heartily recommended for your approval.

George B. Buchanan. Mayor.

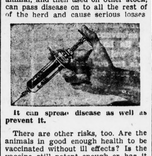
HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCK
PREPARED BY AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH

VACCINE REQUIRES EXPERT HANDLING

Properly used, the vaccine against hypodermic syringe can be a powerful ally to livestock producers. In the hands of untrained or careless persons, it may spread dangerous diseases and actually do more harm than good.

Anthrax, hog cholera, swine erysipelas, swamp fever, malignant edema and these and other diseases can be controlled among farm animals by the use of the vaccinating needle.

Often, unqualified persons are inoculating animals with contamination that livestock may die of infectious diseases accidentally transmitted from animal to animal through the medium of the contaminated needles.



It can spread disease as well as prevent it.

There are other risks, too. Are the animals in good enough health to be vaccinated without ill effects? Is the vaccine still potent enough or has it deteriorated? What is the proper dosage? Professional answers to these questions, and professional skill in the actual vaccination, are the keys to safe and effective use of vaccine to prevent livestock diseases.

Not know the necessary precautions?

One danger is the "carrier" animal—one that carries disease germs, yet appears to be healthy. A needle pushed through the skin of such an animal, and then used on other stock, can pass disease on to all the rest of the herd and cause serious losses.

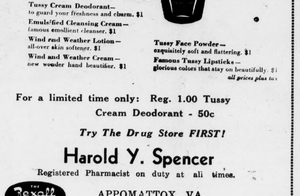
Uncle Sam Says



Automatic Saving is Sure Saving when it's done with U. S. Savings Bonds. And your Opportunity to save in the safe, sure, automatic way will continue in the great Opportunity Spring Drive which opens May 16. An added investment in Savings Bonds through Payroll Savings will provide future security for you, your family, and your country. Start now—and in ten short years your Bonds will yield you $40.00 for every $30.00 you invest today. This is your "Opportunity."
